MINCE PIE AS FOOD Dr. J. A. Rockwell Corrects Report of His Health Talk,

Dr. J. Arnold Rockwell, of Cambridge, Mass., formerly of Norwich, gave a talk at the Evans Memorial last week on What to Eat and Why, which had so many good ideas in it that certain of the Boston papers gave it sensational headlines. Dr. Rockwell took exception to one paper's heading: "Mincs Pie Valuable as a Food-Starve the Child to Make Him

"It was said that in food value or nutrient value mince pie contains the elements of good food," Dr. Rockwell stated. "In no way was it intended to indicate that it was a suitable food as the headline suggests. The second headline, 'Starve the Child to Make Him Good,' is so wide of the mark that its suggestion makes its interthat its suggestion makes its inter-pretation dangerous to the public. "What was said was that in the feeding of children parents were in-clined to sweeten and in other ways make the food more palatable because the children refused to eat plain, wholesome food. Twenty of her many young friends were present. Games were played and a solo was rendered by Miss Howard's brother, Master Cilto Howard. To the music of a march played by her older brother, Master Worth Howard, the young people marched down stairs to the dining room and took places at the table which was tastefully arranged with a birthday cake, fruits and candies. When all were seated blessing was said by her great uncle of Hartford.

The birthday supper was then served by her mother who was assisted by Mrs. Alex. Randail. The supper con-sisted of potato salad, tomato pea salad served on lettuce, leaves, sandwiches and cocoa which was poured by her cousin, Miss Edith Green, ice cream and chocolate cake. The birthday calte was cut and each guest was given a piece to take home. Mis Howard's many presents prove that she is a highly esteemed young lady.

APPOINTED PASTOR AT MOODUS. Rev. Thomas H. Tiernan of New Lon-

Word was received Saturday by Rev. Thomas H. Tiernan, assistant pastor of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, New London, of his appointment as pastor of the Catholic church at Moodus. Father Tiernan leaves New London Thursday to assume his new duties.

Sunday morning at all the masses.

Sunday morning at all the masses Rev. T. M. Crowley, D. D., pastor of St. Mary's parish announced to the congregations the fact of the appointment, stating his regrets at losing such an affable and efficient assistant. He complimented Father Tiernan highly upon his work in New London, and predicted a successful pastorate in his new field.

Father Tiernan then addressed the congregations expressing his regret at leaving them and thanking all for the many courtesles extended him during his stay with them. He said that the notice to leave was so short that he would not have time to see the members of the parish individually, so took this means of expressing his thanks to them and saying farewell. Father Tiernan has been a curate at St. Mary's church for nine years and in that time has made many friends in the city both inside and outside of his church. General regret is expressed on all sides at his departure from the city but all wish him success in his new field as pastor, the promotion to which has been so well deserved.

J. W. STERRY LEFT $1,000,000. All Goes to His Brother, Except $5,000 to Cousin.

At New Brunswick, N. J., the will of James Weaver Sterry, of a Connecticut family, who died on Jan. 3 in Metuchen, has been probated by Surrogate Daniel W. Clayton. Excepting a bequest of $5,000, the entire estate, estimated to be worth about $1,000,000, is left to Mr. Sterrick better. William D. Witte.

A few months before Sterry died ins wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Stivers Sterry, of New York, brought suit for separation in New York, charging desertion and cruelty. Mr. Sterry defeated the action by showing that Mrs. Sterry was not his legal wife, as she had never obtained a divorce from her first husband, Albert S. Rennis, of Chicago.

On May 13, 1206, Mr. Sterry's brother, George W. Sterry, Jr., shot and killed his father and then killed himself in the offices of Weaver & Sterry, 79 Pine street, New York. Their father's estate was valued at $1,000,000, nearly all of which James Weaver Sterry inherited.

Do your eyes give you trouble? Do you already wear eyes just a spectation and these wear eyes lasses or spectacles? Thousands of people wear these "windows" who might easily dispense with them. You may be one of these, and it is your duty to save your eyes bare neglected more than any cother organ of the entire body. AT THE Y. M. C. A. Allyn L. Brown Addresses Boys' Meeting-Rev. D. B. MacLane

At 2.20 o'clock Sunday afternoon Allyn L. Brown gave a very interesting lecture to boys on The Life of the Man of Nazareth, illustrated by beautiful stereopticon views.

The boys listened with rapt attention, and doubtless a deep impression was made on the minds of these coming citizens of our town.

Boys' Secretary Ely had charge of the services, and General Secretary Hill offered prayer. Religious selections were rendered on the Victrola, and these were greatly enjoyed.

At the 2.20 men's rally Rev. Donald B. MacLane was the speaker, and his topic was Christ's Genius for Friendship. The society of the tweive disciples is the most remarkable organization the world has ever seen, he zaid, because it was created and inspired by the sheer force of the Master's friendship. They had no regular business meetings. They were held together solely by the friendship of the Lord. Though the twelve were each different and opposite in character and disposition, vet they were all united by their and opposite in character and disposi-tion, yet they were all united by their devotion to their common master. He made each of them not only his friend but made them friends to only his triend but made them friends to only another. Their friendship was proof against disappointment, for they disappointed Jesus, and Jesus disappointed them, yet they still were friends. It was proof against familiarity, for they were constantly thrown together; their friendship was a constantly thrown together; their proof against familiarity, for they were constantly thrown together; their friendship only deeped. It was proof against pride, for their jealousies and strifes were all overruled and quelled by the Lord's spirit. It was proof against the world, for the world did its best to break Jesus' hold on His disciples but failed. It was proof against death, because Jesus died for His friends; also because their devotion to Him endured after He was gone. Jesus had a strong genius for friendship, He has taught the world the spirit of brotherhood. Wherever men work together, shoulder to shoulder, for their common good and for a great cause, there is the spirit and power of the Lord.

General Secretary Hill had charge of General Secretary Hill had charge of the meeting. Music was furnished by Swahn's orchestra, which added much to the spirit of the service.

COAL BARGES DRIVEN

INTO STONINGTON HARBOR Others Held Up in New London by Heavy Seas and Wind.

Nearly 4,000 tons of coal, for which dealers in ports east of Point Judith are waiting, were in the weather bound barges at New London Saturday morning. Two of the seven tows got away early, but they could only go to Stonington, where they put in to get out of a gale that was raging outside. All of the tugs went down the harbor at daylight for the purpose of trying to go east with their barges. Only the W. E. Gladwish and Resolute, which had small tows, were able to go through Fishers Island Sound. to go through Fishers Island Sound Before they reached Watch Hill the wind had risen to the proportions of a gale and the tugs headed for Ston ington breakwater to get to safety with no time to spare.
